

AROS

The Aros museum in Aarhus is easily spotted by the rainbow panorama on top of the building. Inside the museum there are nine floors in tangent with Dante's nine circles of hell. The lower down the darker the exhibits are and the top reaches the rainbow walk. The walkway is also circular and guides the visitors to each floor. One of the most interesting exhibits is called far from home and it has a sculpture of a large boy in it. One that I used for my poster was called "No Man Is an Island" which is an installation piece. In the piece visitors were encouraged to scratch a Lamborghini.
